

Inter-school Singing Contest

By Marcus Cheung

This morning, Sarah was sad because Ellie and Ada argued with each other during a singing practice in the classroom. They formed a group call Harmony Girls and would take part in the inter-school singing contest in the afternoon. Ellie blamed Ada that she always forgot the lyrics when they were practicing.

'Stop blaming me! You make me feel nervous,' shouted Ada.

Suddenly, Miss Chan came into the classroom and reminded them, 'You're going to take part in the singing contest this afternoon. You need to support and encourage one another. Let work as a team and become the real Harmony Girls.'

In the afternoon, the contest started. Ada, Ellie and Sarah were the first team to get on stage. They were very nervous. Ellie looked at Ada and Sarah and said, 'We can do it! Let's start!'

Finally, they won. The judge said, 'You're all working well as a team. Good job, Harmony Girls!' The girls were very surprised but delighted.
